The Senate yesterday approved the nomination of George C. McGhee, former Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs, to become Ambassador to West Germany.

Also confirmed was the nomination of Roger Hilsman Jr. to be Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs and Brewster H. Morris to be Ambassador to the Republic of Chad. Hilsman is a former Director of Intelligence and Research for the State Department. Morris is a career foreign service officer.

Meanwhile, the White House announced that President Kennedy is appointing Glenn T. Seaborg to a new five-year term on the Atomic Energy Commission and intends to redesignate him Chairman of the AEC.

Mr. Kennedy also formally nominated retired Adm. Jerauld Wright to be U. S. Ambassador to China.
